Experience the zero gravity sleeping position

At Adjustamatic we create beds that can be adjusted to hundreds of unique positions, including the scientifically recommended Zero Gravity sleeping position.

When your head and feet are elevated, pressure points are eliminated, tension is reduced and all that's left is a blissful feeling of weightlessness.

By taking one of our 60 second Rest Right at home or in store demonstrations one of our fully trained comfort specialists can demonstrate total comfort tailored to you.

The cyclo-therapy difference

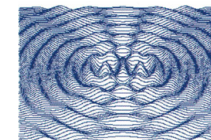

Massage itself is as old as any form of human therapy. Generally safe, non-invasive and instantly soothing.

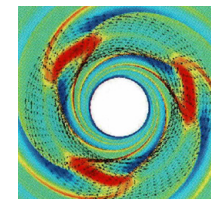

It's not surprising there have been, over the centuries, numerous attempts to devise patented mechanical or automatic approaches to provide the benefits without the special skills, time and sheer physical work massage tends to demand.

NHC Cyclo-Therapy® which is incorporated into our products, works on a radically different principle to other massage systems. Instead of involving some form of pounding or hammering action, it uses a unique elliptical movement operating like a gyroscope and creates a soothing (instead of jarring) cycloidal vibration. This is achieved by the fact the multi-directional energy waves are moving left/right/up/down whilst rotating on a constant basis.

The result? A deep, gentle and relaxing massage treatment without any of the conventional side effects.

This illustration shows the three dimensional circular wave transverse movement. (A transverse wave is a moving wave that consists of oscillations occurring perpendicular, or at right angles to the direction of energy transfer).

This illustration shows the three dimensional circular movement created by cycloidal vibration.

Recommended by Healthcare Professionals

All of our cycloidal vibration products are CE marked and certified as Class IIa Medical Devices as regulated by the UK Medicines and Healthcare Regulatory Authority (MHRA). This means that we have had to meet strict European Standards and demonstrate on an on-going basis the evidence, quality, safety and effectiveness of our products to deliver numerous benefits to the user.

"At the West Yorkshire Physiotherapy centre we work with a wide variety of musculoskeletal conditions, from post-operative orthopaedic problems right through to professional athletes with sports injuries. We are actively using the NHC Cyclo-Therapy® in the treatment of connective tissues incorporating it with our specific connective tissue massage (CTM) techniques. The two together are promoting increased blood flow, rapid reduction in swelling, decreased pain perception and more importantly, as a result of all the above, increased joint mobility and function. The combined treatment of the NHC Cyclo-Therapy® and CTM is proving a lot less painful than our previous form of CTM so more patients can tolerate the treatment and are benefitting immediately."

Feel the difference

When applied non-invasively to the skin, directly to or surrounding an area of pain, cycloidal vibration generated from NHC Cyclo-Therapy® is a non-pharmacological aid to promote pain relief.

Cycloidal vibration can stimulate alternative nerve fibres that don't carry pain signals, stimulating enough of these alternative nerve fibres that then block pain transmitted signals from the source of the pain. Cycloidal vibration along with the positional adjustments available in our products can help relieve the symptoms of a range of medical conditions.

Arthritis and back pain

One of the causes of arthritic-like conditions is the build up of metabolic waste material in the synovial fluid, resulting in irritation and increased inflammation in and around the joint. Following the application of cycloidal vibration, joint pain and swelling is reduced, resulting in improved mobility. Cycloidal vibration therapy will not cure the underlying cause of the arthritis but can help relieve the symptoms such as pain, reduced joint movement and mobility

Circulatory problems, oedema and swelling

Oedema is an abnormal accumulation of fluid beneath the skin or in one or more cavities of the body that produces swelling. The vibration you receive whilst relaxing in an Adjustamatic bed penetrates the vascular cells and activates a number of chemical reactions, including the release of nitric oxide, a muscle relaxer. This relaxes the muscle walls of the blood and lymph vessels, increases the diameter of the veins and arteries which results in dilatation and greater blood flow.

Respiration – COPD, bronchiectasis, asthma

The positional benefits of our products may help alleviate the secondary symptoms of some respiratory conditions by aiding muscle relaxation and help mobilise chest congestion to improve the process of chest clearance.

Wounds

Cycloidal vibration improves circulation which increases the delivery of healthy oxygenated blood and the removal of waste products and toxins. This can improve the healing of soft tissue injury and wounds like leg ulcers. Increased circulation stimulates the production process involved in healing and regeneration of cells and soft tissue.

Nervous system

Tension, anxiety and insomnia often occur with muscle tightness or tension. This can be a severe and constant problem for sufferers of cerebral palsy, post-stroke victims and following spinal injuries. Reducing muscle tightness or spasticity by using NHC Cyclo-Therapy® will improve joint mobility and movement as well as lead to general relaxation.

NHC Cyclo-Therapy® equipment being used by healthcare professionals at the Golden Jubilee Regional Spinal Cord Injuries Centre, James Cook University Hospital, Middlesbrough.

The Adjustamatic Airflow Active Comfort is a mattress like no other and unique in its design which has been a work in progress for over 50 years. At Adjustamatic we believe that when you sleep better, you live better.

50mm Vasco 50 memory foam castellated zonal surface

Promotes active airflow, keeping the sleeping surface supportive and cool aiding restful sleep. The castellated sections are divided into multi zonal areas for the head, core and foot. This helps reduce pressure of the neck, shoulders, back, hips and knees to improve posture, help relieve aches and pains and improve comfort while you sleep.

SleepID

SleepID® – Comfort you control

The SleepID® mattress is designed to cover every aspect of sleep comfort that can be tailored to your individual needs every single night.

The unique SleepID® Adjustable Dynamic Core provides dual adjustable firmness control at the touch of a button. Only you know when you are truly comfortable and you can adjust the setting to suit your needs whenever you need to. Once you have selected and saved your preferred firmness setting by using the memory function, at the press of the memory button it will make any required adjustment to your preferred setting, making sure that you have optimum comfort.

The SleepID® 50mm memory foam castellated zonal surface has a unique open cell structure that reacts and responds to body heat and weight by moulding to the contours of your body, therefore optimizing the support it can give you by almost eliminating all pressure points your body is usually subjected to. The zonal areas are distinctly broken down for head, body and feet areas to aid in the dispersion of weight. The castellated surface also promotes natural airflow keeping the surface area cool. It is the most effective material for relieving pressure points and used for prevention of pressure sores and has multiple orthopaedic and other health benefits making a huge difference to your quality of sleep.

The luxurious natural silk and cashmere blanket provides a soft cushion between the memory foam surface and Micro 1.5™ pocket sprung layer providing insulation and keeping you comfortable all night. The advanced micro coil layer also provides the ultimate in ergonomic support. Ingeniously flexible springs within zonal areas give targeted superior support.

The luxury quilted cover is made largely from Viscose which is a soft fibre derived from naturally occurring cellulose making it both breathable and cooling.

Adjustable bed benefits

Posture benefits of an Adjustable bed

On average we spend a third of our lives in bed so our posture is vitally important. Investing in the right bed can help you to sleep better, have better posture and enjoy a more comfortable night's rest. An investment in improving your posture in bed is an investment in your health.

The smooth contouring movement of an Adjustamatic bed allows you to accurately change and set your body profile position for maximum comfort and postural health benefits. It is highly recommended that you try out the equipment by having a qualified representative demonstrate the various products available first, to become acquainted with the techniques and benefits of using each one.

We are also a partner of UK charity BackCare, that aims to provide information and advice to those affected by back pain. They fund scientific research into the causes, prevention and management of back pain.

The healthcare benefits of effective posture in bed were first noted by surgeon George Ryerson Fowler during the late 1800s. Now referred to as the Fowler's positions, they are differing degrees of back and leg height and angle.

Including; low, semi-high, high and the standard Fowler's position, also known as "Fowler's". The positions are typically used to release strain on the muscles and to improve breathing. They also help with fluid drainage. The 'semi-high position' for example, is seated in a semi-upright position of 30 to 45 degrees with the knees bent or straight and this can ease tension on the stomach muscles and help with breathing.

“Investing in the right bed can help you to sleep better, have better posture and enjoy a more comfortable night's rest.”

The Fowler's positions are recognised in standard teaching for many nursing courses today due to their medical benefits. These benefits have then been backed with clinical research over many years.

An Adjustamatic bed can contour and profile to all the Fowler positions.

HERITAGE DOUBLE BED IN SHALLOW CONTOUR POSITION

Adjustable bed benefits

Comfort: The Zero Gravity Position

Lying flat generates a number of unsupported pressure points on the body. These points relate to the areas of the body carrying the most weight and the bony prominences close to the skin such as the:

- Hips
- Head
- Shoulders
- Heels
- Sacrum
(the triangular shaped bone at the bottom of the spine).

Therefore, in principle, the ideal and most comfortable position is a zero gravity position to eliminate these pressure points. The smooth, accurate and contouring control of an Adjustamatic bed allows you to position and contour the bed to support and reduce tension of these pressure points.

Reducing pressure points can improve your general health by relieving the pressure of your joints and weight bearing areas. This also improves skin and soft tissue blood flow to any areas subject to pressure.

Medical research shows that using an adjustable bed to raise the legs and head of your bed slightly generates a soft contour position that will reduce the amount of pressure between you and the mattress surface. This soft contour position, or zero gravity position, will support the body to take the strain off the spine and pivot point joints giving you as relaxed a position as possible.

Reduce back pain with an Adjustamatic Bed

Many people suffer from some sort of back pain, which can make even the simplest tasks, such as sitting or sleeping, difficult. Sleeping in the wrong position can exacerbate back pain or cause back pain in those who don't typically have it.

Your spine is an 'S'-shaped curve so when you lie on your back, you put pressure on the areas that are not supported such as the lower back where the arc is at its peak.

Back pain and problems can develop over time if the body is not in a natural position while you sleep. An Adjustamatic bed is capable of closely matching the contours of the body, and that reduces the pressure on the spine. Some back pain sufferers will pile pillows up, leading to stiffness and muscle strain in the neck. Adjustamatic beds, however, provide this elevated position without putting extra pressure on the neck.

Raising the bed slightly offers extra support for the shoulders as well, and that can lead to fewer strains and less stiffness in the mornings. An adjustable bed can help to provide extra support for the base of the spine, which can prevent the trapping of nerves. Sleeping on your back puts approximately 50 pounds (20kg) of pressure on your spine, so raising your knees while lying on your back cuts pressure on your spine roughly by 50%.

Recommended sleeping position for back pain sufferers

An adjustable position that is recommended for your back is with your legs elevated, knees bent and your back completely flat. This position creates a pelvic tilt, puts reverse pressure on your lower back and helps build the strength of your lower back muscles.

By elevating your legs and bending your knees you can actually feel your lower back moving. You can realign the weights and pressures on your vertebrae that may in turn be pressing on your delicate nerves, finding more comfortable and less stressful positions.

NOTE

During the night, if you wake, just adjust slightly the elevation of your back and the raised level of your knees. This will aid to prevent joint stiffness in the morning.

Trust

At Adjustmatic we are immensely proud of our heritage and with over 85,000 customers across the UK it is no surprise to hear that so many of them are happy to share their experiences.

A member of our customer support team will be appointed to you from the moment your order is placed and will guide you through from your product manufacture to your delivery installation and beyond.

The Autovvariable bed I purchased from Adjustmatic has helped me dramatically. I am thrilled with the quality of the bed and the overall service I have received. Being disabled has meant I have often struggled with finding a comfortable bed having to rely heavily on cushions and pillows to provide me comfort and support. With the Autovvariable bed, I am able to get in and out of the bed easily as well as finding the best position that provides me the most comfort.

The NHC Cyclo-Therapy® massage system has also been helpful to me and I believe the money I have spent has been well invested given the many features of the bed. Additionally, the service was exemplary with the deliverymen being incredibly considerate. They ensured the bed was set up the way I wanted and ensured there was nothing in my way. Overall, I am overly satisfied with my choice to purchase from Adjustmatic!

Mr Holland from Sterchford –July 2019

“My overall experience of purchasing from Adjustmatic has been marvellous.

I am yet to see another company match the service of Adjustmatic. I am in a wheelchair and find the bed to be a haven. The bed has helped my pain and also reduced the soreness I experience due to being wheelchair bound. The Contour AV bed is easy to adjust, and I cannot be happier with the bed and Adjustmatic as a business.

Mrs Roots, from Horsham – June 2019

“It has been nearly a week since me and my wife had the Adjustmatic Heritage Bed delivered and the whole process has been easy and completely stress-free. The sales agent was a great representative for Adjustmatic, taking his time with us and giving us the space to make our own decision. Furthermore, the two gentlemen who delivered the bed were also fantastic, leaving the bedroom spotless once they had set everything up.

The bed itself is very comfortable as we can adjust it to the position that we find gives us the most comfortable nights sleep. With our old bed, my wife would often wake up at 3 am in discomfort, feeling quite stiff and tensed up. However, since using the Adjustmatic Bed this doesn't happen anymore and both of us always have a great night's sleep.
